One-time charges, including but not limited to setup fees, onboarding fees, implementation fees, and customization charges, are non-refundable, as these services involve dedicated resources and upfront effort.

Payments made for customized, enterprise, or client-specific solutions are non-refundable, unless explicitly stated otherwise in a written agreement or contract.

5. Service Non-Delivery

In the rare occasion that a paid service is not provided due to an issue solely attributable to us, we may, at our discretion and after careful review, offer a refund or a service credit.

Free trials, demos, or pilot access—if provided—are intended for evaluation purposes only and are not eligible for refunds.

7. Cancellation Requests

Any cancellation request must be submitted in writing. Approval of cancellations and any associated refund, if applicable, will be subject to review based on the nature of the service and the stage of delivery.
